Strengths: This pre-kindergarten through eighth grade school district is experiencing growth in student population, and a second building was added to the district in 2009. The newer building's library space was designed with input from the library staff. It includes two circulation stations, up-to-date technology, and plenty of study and reading space. The District Librarian has only been with the district since August, and she reported the library's budget and supportive administration helps make her position easier to serve students and staff.

Challenges: The district librarian has begun a large task of re-classifying the non-fiction collection. When the middle school was built nine years ago, older books from the existing school were sent to this library before being weeded, so the district librarian is in the middle of a time consuming weeding project.
